KEY LEADERSHIP, GOVERNANCE, AND MANAGEMENT POSITIONS

- Inaugural Director, Royal Geographical Society of South Australia, Inc. 2022+
As foundation Director (Chief Executive Officer) of this learned society, charity, and voluntary, not-for-profit organisation I provide leadership and management to enhance: the reputation of the Society as well as geography more generally; the experience of a growing number of members; the financial position of the Society; productive connections with kindred organisations, and the Society's impact on the community through its research, resources, events, programs, publications, and awards. In particular, I have established an Education Committee, Membership Task Force, and Young and Early career Geographers' group; taken a pivotal role in the Society's 100 Treasures Project; established new relationships with kindred organisations; established both an international book series and an international Library Research Fellowship scheme; and worked to negotiate the sale of significant assets to secure the Society's financial future.
- Chair, Australian Academy of Science, National Committee for Geographical Sciences 2022-2026
I led this Committee whose broad aims are to foster Geography, as a designated branch or theme of natural science in Australia, and to serve as links between Australian and overseas scientists in the same field. The National Committee for Geographical Sciences advises the Academy's Council on Australia's representation for the unions and multidisciplinary bodies of the International Science Council and other international bodies.
- Academic Dean, Australian Institute of Business (May – November 2023)
I provided academic leadership and strategic direction to the Institute's integrated academic portfolio, maintaining and developing academic excellence, sector-leading delivery of content, and outstanding service and support to AIB students. The role involved oversight of teaching, research, online learning/library, academic operations, and student support in Australia's largest provider of online Master of Business Administration degrees and for the Institute's PhD and DBA degrees. At the time AIB was also ranked through independent government analysis (QILT Graduate Outcomes Survey) as number one in Australia for Business and Management Postgraduate Student Satisfaction. During my brief term with AIB, and over and above regular and intensive governance activities, I led work to both diversify and make consistent assessment forms across AIB's suite of programs; formulated comprehensive quality improvement arrangements for Student Evaluation of Subjects and Teachers; launched a review of the form and function of graduation; and led members of the Senior Academic Leadership Team in AIB's development of responses to Generative Artificial Intelligence.
- First Vice President 2020-2022, Vice President 2014-2020, and Publications Officer 2014-2022, International Geographical Union
Senior leader of prominent non-governmental, professional organization devoted to the development of the discipline of Geography globally. Vice-Presidential role includes leadership of the Union; co-ordination of publications, scholarly awards and international congresses; management of revenue and funds; and liaising with National Committees, IGU Commissions and Task Forces as well as the International Science Council and other members of the global communities of scientists and social scientists. Twice elected in a global ballot of nations to serve as one of eight IGU Vice-Presidents. Appointed First Vice President for 2020-2022 (understood to be the first Australian to hold that role in the IGU's 100+ year history)..
- Non-Executive Director, SACE Board of South Australia (July 2021- November 2023)
The SACE Board of South Australia is an independent statutory authority of the South Australian Government that provides the South Australian Certificate of Education (SACE) and SACE International, and delivers professional learning through Prescient, a network of educators committed to delivering transformative professional learning. The Board consists of 11 members nominated by the Minister for Education and appointed by the Governor of South Australia, and the SACE Board's Chief Executive (ex officio).

- Vice-President, Royal Geographical Society of South Australia, Inc. (June 2021 – August 2022)
Elected to help lead this voluntary, not-for-profit organisation (founded 10 July 1885) which aims to advance geographical science and promote public awareness and enjoyment of Geography and related topics. Also created, and served as Chair of, the Research, Publication and Awards Committee; member of the South Australian Geographical Journal Editorial Board; and founding convenor of the Society's LinkedIn site.
- Governor, St Peter's Collegiate Girls' School, Adelaide (May 2021-May 2024)
Appointed member of the Board of Governors' overseeing the activities of St Peter's Girls' School, an independent Anglican early learning, primary, and secondary day school for girls in Adelaide, South Australia. The Board operates under world's best practice governance principles for educational institutions. It provides leadership, sets strategic directions, and fosters long-term financial sustainability. The Board promotes and practises ethical, informed, and transparent decision-making. I also sat on the Board's Governance and Nominations Committee.
- Director, Health Care Insurance (HCI), a national, Australian member-owned and not-for-profit health fund (November 2020+)
Elected board member of HCI, a member-owned and not-for-profit health fund that has been providing health insurance to the community for over 80 years. Role demands responsibility for governance and involves providing overall strategic guidance for HCI and effective oversight of its management. I Chair the Performance and Remuneration Committee and am a member of the Risk Committee and the Nominations Committees. I was re-elected to the Board by Fund members in 2023.
- Elected Council Member, COPE (Committee on Publication Ethics) 2020
Shared responsibility for the international operational activities of COPE, a British-registered charitable organisation that provides: global leadership in thinking on publication ethics; practical resources to educate and support its 12,000+ members; and a professional voice in current debates around publication ethics.
- Foundation Dean (Education), College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences, Flinders University, South Australia 2017-2018
Shared responsibility with leadership team for, inter alia, strategic leadership, general management, relationship-building, and marketing of a new College. Specific responsibility for strategic leadership and management of educational activities and the experience of students in disciplines spanning archaeology to environmental studies to linguistics to drama. Included harmonizing staff and activities from three former Faculties (Education, Humanities & Law; Science & Engineering; Social & Behavioural Sciences); developing, implementing and reviewing learning and teaching initiatives; driving innovation in curricula including internationalization; and managing continuous improvement activities related to learning and teaching, the student experience, and achievement of domestic and international targets. Also responsible for engaging with student, community and professional stakeholders to promote the College's educational endeavours. Worked collaboratively with the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Students), Vice-President and Executive Dean, other Deans, and over 100 permanent academic staff in the College.
- President, Institute of Australian Geographers 2010-2012
IAG is the principal body representing geographers and promoting the study and application of geography in Australia. The national role of President entails strategic leadership; governance and constitutional reform; discipline promotion; membership services, including support for postgraduate student members; management of professional publications and internal communications; and oversight of annual conferences, study groups, awards, and Institute finances. I worked successfully to enhance international professional relationships; improve intra-Institute communications and external & media engagement; encourage study groups (e.g. gender; social & cultural geography); develop publishing opportunities for students; and institutionalize professional development support for early career researchers

- Australian Discipline Scholar for the Arts, Social Sciences and Humanities 2009-2011
Seconded from Flinders University to the Australian Learning and Teaching Council to coordinate nationwide higher education academic standards-setting for the Arts, Social Sciences and Humanities and to establish national learning-and-teaching network for Associate Deans. Significant quality assurance role that yielded influential national Learning and Teaching Academic Statements for Geography and History used subsequently as models for other disciplines across Australia (e.g. Environment and Sustainability, Sociology).
- Head, School of Geography, Population and Environmental Management, Faculty of Social Sciences, Flinders University 2001-2006
Academic leader responsible for leadership and management of @30 academic and adjunct staff, 5 general staff, 20 PhD students, 45 Masters students, several hundred undergraduate students involved in an intricate and expanding array of undergraduate and postgraduate programs. Responsible for managing financial and physical resources, representing the School within the University, and developing partnerships with external stakeholders and communities. Also responsible for supporting and improving research and learning-and-teaching and associated performance management whilst fostering a dynamic, productive and collegial culture within the School.
- Assistant Personnel Officer (Rank: Flying Officer), Royal New Zealand Air Force Base Auckland 1981
One of two Personnel Officers responsible for approximately 1000 Air Force staff. Role involved leading a small group of highly experienced non-commissioned staff to manage a broad range of human resources responsibilities together and to develop draft, policy-informed opinions on contentious and difficult personnel issues.

Distinguished Professor Emeritus IAIN HAY

1. Scientific accomplishments, contributions to the advancement of geography worldwide, and leadership connecting scholars internationally have been recognised with fellowships from, inter alia, the Academy of Social Sciences (UK); American Association of Geographers; and the Institute of Australian Geographers and by awards that include the IAG's 2022 Australia-International Medal; the 2022 International Association for Promoting Geoethics Medal, 2016 Massey University Distinguished Alumnus Award, and the 2011 Distinguished New Zealand Geographer Medal. Additional contributions to science education have been acknowledged by numerous institutional, national, and international awards, including 2006 Australian University Teacher of the Year. Most recently (2024) received the Lauréat d'Honneur, the International Geographical Union's highest award for geographers.
2. Foundation 2025 appointee to the International Science Council's Committee for Membership on the basis of a nomination by the Australian Academy of Science.
3. In roles as current Chair (and former Deputy) of the Australian Academy of Science's National Committee for Geographical Sciences unites the country's geographical organizations into a purposeful national federation and continues to work closely with colleagues to shape and implement Australia's current Decadal Plan for Geography.
4. As First Vice-President (2020-22) & Vice-President (2014-20) of the International Geographical Union (IGU), provided broad and strategic scientific leadership; led successful publications and communications initiatives; liaised with and recruited national members; championed only the second IGU Congress to be held in the Southern Hemisphere in over a century; and ushered establishment of the IGU's newest Commission, on Research Methods.
5. Appointed in 2022 by the state's Governor to the SACE Board \(South Australian Certificate of Education\), an independent statutory authority that offers a trailblazing internationally-recognized secondary school qualification.
6. Has held critical leadership roles in the Royal Geographical Society of South Australia's most active committees (e.g. Research, Publications & Awards), edited the Society's longstanding journal, served several terms as a Councillor, then as Vice-President (2021-22), and is now its inaugural Director (2022+) working to modernise the Society.
7. In 2020 joined the Council of COPE (Committee on Publication Ethics) following an international ballot of its 12,000 members. Offered COPE a valuable geography-discipline background and Asia-Pacific experience plus credibility founded on authorship of his highly-cited book Research Ethics in the Social Sciences (Sage 2006).
8. As Australian Learning and Teaching Discipline Scholar (2009-11), co-ordinated Australia's higher education academic standards-setting for the Arts, Social Sciences and Humanities. This revolutionary work united the country's historians and geographers in agreed definitions of their disciplines and yielded internationally benchmarked Australian Learning and Teaching Academic Statements for Geography and for History. These served subsequently as models for other disciplines (e.g. Politics, Sociology). Iain also contributed to the Australian Standards Statement for Environment and Sustainability produced on behalf of the Australian Council of Environmental Deans and Directors. This work received the 2015 Australian Green Gown Award for Learning, Teaching and Skills.
9. As Australian Learning and Teaching Discipline Scholar, also established NOADD (now ADR Communities of Practice), an enduring and active national network of Associate Deans in the Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences.
10. Cofounded and directed (1999-2005) the now longstanding and successful International Network of Learning and Teaching geography in higher education. This community of hundreds of scientists works to improve the quality and status of learning and teaching of geography in higher education around the globe.
11. Served as President (and Vice-President, and Secretary) of the Institute of Australian Geographers (IAG), working successfully to enhance international professional relationships; improve intra-Institute communications and external & media engagement; encourage study groups (e.g. gender; social & cultural geography); develop publishing opportunities for students; and institutionalize professional development support for early career researchers.
12. Founded and co-edits the IGU's international book series on Contemporary Geographies (Edward Elgar). Recently founded the RGSSA's international book series Antipodean Perspectives on Geography and invited by publisher Edward Elgar to lead its How to be an Academic Superhero series (which now has 6 books contracted).
13. As Editor-in-Chief, transformed the IAG's flagship journal, Geographical Research (Wiley-Blackwell), from an Australian-focussed journal to a highly successful international publication with an 'Australian accent'.
14. Co-founded the pioneering journal Ethics, Place and Environment now entitled [Ethics, Policy and Environment] (Taylor & Francis) in the late 1990s and served actively for over 12 years as Asia-Pacific Commissioning Editor.

15. Was Foundation Australasian Commissioning Editor for *Journal of Geography in Higher Education* (Taylor & Francis) from 1995-2005. Over this decade raised the profile of geographical education in Australia and New Zealand dramatically and moved the journal towards a more practical, ethical, and international orientation.
16. Served as Co-editor of *International Gambling Studies* (2006-09) adding an important geographical perspective to a field typically dominated by disciplines such as economics, psychology, and sociology.
17. Demonstrates academic leadership through extensive editorial board experience with journals such as *ACME*; *Applied Geography*; *Erdkunde*; *International Research in Geographical and Environmental Education*; *Luxury*; *New Zealand Geographer*; *Norwegian Journal of Geography*; and *Social and Cultural Geography*.
